PARKLEA CORRECTIONAL CENTRE IS QUALITY ASSURED

The GEO operated Parklea Correctional Centre in Sydney has had the quality of its management and services officially recognised with three ISO certifications.

Parklea — which became the world's first fully operational correctional facility to move from public to private management in 2009 following a competitive tender — can now demonstrate quality in delivery across three key areas:

- Quality Management Systems (ISO AS/NZS 9001:2008)
- Environmental Management Systems (ISO AS/NZS 14001:2004)
- Occupational Health and Safety Management Systems (ISO AS/NZS 4801:2001)

The ISO certifications comes less than three years after GEO assumed management of Parklea and embarked on a major program of management and quality enhancement.

Parklea joins the three other Australian correctional centres operated by GEO in holding these ISO certifications.

The GEO-operated Junee Correctional Centre and Parklea are the only correctional facilities in New South Wales to hold these three accreditations simultaneously.

“Taking over Parklea was a major undertaking as it was the first time such a transfer had been attempted anywhere in the world,” said Keith Ketheeswaran, The GEO Group Australia's executive general manager risk and compliance.

“Apart from recruiting and training more than 100 new staff, delivering a safe and secure transfer of operations and meeting demanding performance measures, Parklea has aspired to seek ISO accreditation and that is a testament to the correctional centre team's ambition and energy.”

Parklea Correctional Centre general manager Peter M'aa commended his team for gaining ISO accreditation so quickly.

"I am pleased Parklea has joined the rest of the GEO-operated centres in securing these three important ISO certifications," he said.

"We continually look for independent evidence of the quality of our services and the outcomes we seek to deliver, in particular in the key areas of quality management, environmental management and OH&S."
